

The Clay Studio, established in 1991, offers clay classes to kids and adults in a fully equipped studio in Montclair, New Jersey.

Elizabeth Smith Jacobs, who owns and operates The Clay Studio, has a BFA from SUNY Purchase and a Masters in Art Education from NYU. She has been teaching art for over 30 years and clay classes since 1983.

She regularly attends workshops on various clay techniques, such as paperclay, raku, saw dust firing, and assorted hand building techniques.

The Clay Studio also sponsors workshops by visiting artists.

Elizabeth also teaches raku and saw dust firing workshops and is the founder of the Unity Wall project, a collaborative public art tile project.

Clay Classes Fall 2014

Mondays	4:15-6 9th-12th grade
Tuesdays	4:15-6 6-8th grade
Thursdays	4:15-6:00 3rd-6th grade

Basic hand building techniques are taught through a series of lessons that introduce students to the skills needed to create durable clay pieces.

Wheel throwing is introduced after the basics of clay are explored and understood.

The students will learn a variety of finishing techniques using glazes, underglazes, paints, and polishes. All pieces are kiln fired.

Students are encouraged to work at their own pace, allowing them to create to their fullest potential.

Class size is limited to 8.

$320 for 10 weeks. Includes all materials and snack.
